REPUBLICANS FOR SUFFRAGE

Offer of Opportunity to Endorse National Suffrage Amendment Entails Another Painful Flattening for Mr. Daggs

H. R. Daggs had either forgotten the way he was treated at the state central committee meeting, when the matter of endorsing the Sutherland-Mondell suffrage resolution was considered, or else, he did not mind in the least, being overborne by an overwhelming sentiment, so long as he thought himself in the right. As a result, he again futilely opposed consideration of a resolution, offered at the county convention yesterday by Mrs. E. St. Clair Thompson, representing the Congressional Union for National Suffrage.

When Mrs. Thompson was called to the rostrum, Mr. Daggs pointed out what he took for a limit on the powers of the convention, contained in the call. Chairman Curtis ruled otherwise, however, and Mrs. Thompson not only spoke, but offered her resolution, and had it passed. She pointed out that while the Union had been accused of being in the pay of the republican national committee, it had also been charged with being a democratic organization. On a strictly non-partisan basis, it was fighting for the enfranchisement of women. It had the endorsement of Arizona women, and she desired that the Arizona men, who had given their better halves the vote, do something to shame the dyed in the wool reactionaries of the east, who could not be moved as separate blocks (one state big, each) but might be moved if bunched.

Mrs. Thompson read the following resolution, which was adopted with unanimity and applause:

Resolved: That we the members of the republican county convention of Maricopa county meeting this 22nd day of April, 1916 in Phoenix, Arizona, do, in response of the desires of the women voters of all political parties of our county most heartily endorse and urge congress to pass forthwith on to the states for ratification, the Susan B. Anthony Amendment, known in this congress as the Sutherland-Mondell Woman Suffrage Amendment. We urge this action in a spirit of fair play in order that the women of America may enjoy the same protection under the United States constitution as do the men and in order that the unjust and harassing contrast of political freedom for the women of the west and political slavery for the women of the east may end in enfranchisement for all citizens under our flag without distinction of race, color or sex.

TEAL SHOW GREETED BY PLEASED THROG

After Long Absence Raymond Teal Returns and Fills a Long Felt Want, Cast all Clever

With a crowded house to greet him after an absence of five years, Raymond Teal was welcomed back to Phoenix at the Empress theater last night, in "The Time, The Place, and the Girl." With the comedian are all the old favorites that have never been replaced in the hearts of the theatergoers—Fritz Fields, Hazel Lake, Madeline Rowe, not forgetting little Minnie Vandervort and all those others who were here long ago. And in addition to them Teal has gathered about him a far more clever and capable cast than when he was here before. He has a typical "Teal duck" chorus, bright, sparkling and full of pep, clean clever comedy, and the initial offering was well staged and beautifully costumed. If the company keeps up the standard set at the opening performance, the success of J. H. Barnard's venture in bringing it here is assured.

Teal was greeted with enthusiasm and his specialty work more favorably than any number although he has a rival in popularity in his "ninety horse power sourette," Hazel Lake. There surely must be some mistake in the press agent's estimate of Miss Lake for to the house last evening her horse power appeared to be at least one hundred. She is infinitely better in her specialties than in speaking lines and may some day be featured this particular bit with great success as Nan Halperin. Teal's former sourette who is now a headliner at the Palace Theater in New York.

Fritz Fields is unquestionably the best musical comedy star since Fritz Fields, he is scored a decided hit. Then came Madeline Rowe for her share of the applause, and Roy Kinlow who has developed splendidly. Claud Kelly, Corrine Corkeek, Art Phillips, besides the new members of the cast who give promise of being equally well liked. If Geraldine DeLacour was missing there was her charming little sister Pansy to take her place and she made good.

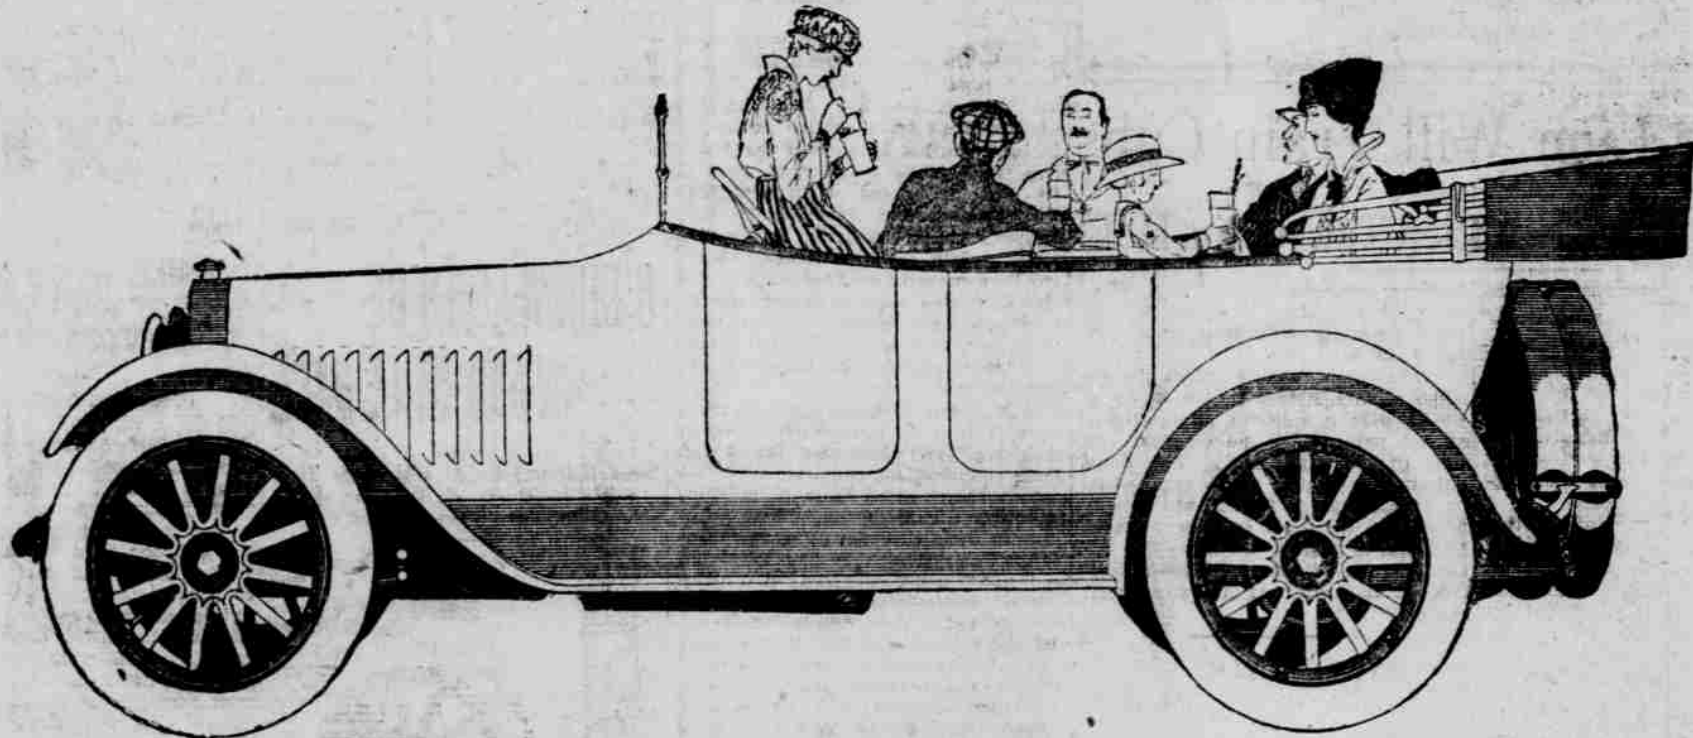

The chorus was a big item for it had the snap, and good looks that has been missing in many another chorus. Best of all there was Minnie at the end and at the other end handsome Marion Rochester who knows how to dance and sing. The voices of both the principals and chorus are excellent and with every other detail correspondingly good what more is there to say.

Teal in a brief talk said they might

Quality First

This 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers Will Last Any Man 5 Years or More.

She hasn't a weakness. And the sturdiest part of her anatomy is her 3400 r. p. m. engine.

Now there has been a lot of talk about 3400. I find some of my prospects come in here a little bit doubtful about 3400.

They have been told by my contemporaries that an engine turning up 3400 r. p. m. is doomed to short existence.

That's absurd. Why, there are at least three cars in America that do 3100 r. p. m. or better. Ten years ago in Europe there were cars that did 4000 r. p. m.

Take the electric fan. It does around 4000. A turbine reaches about 4300.

Now, the argument set forth against 3400 is the "wear and tear on bearings."

How ridiculous!

Of course, if we had an old-fashioned engine with heavy iron pistons and arm-and-hammer type of connecting rods—then, to be sure, I'd have little to say.

But, to the contrary, this is a very modern engine. The pistons are aluminum, which cost a whole lot more, but weigh a whole lot less.

Then the connecting rods are much lighter.

That takes a lot of weight off the bearings, and permits about 500 r. p. m. more engine speed.

That isn't a very big increase, I know, but it's just enough to make a very foxy, silken affair in action.

And then, too, in traveling 10 miles an hour her engine speed is only 500 r. p. m. At 20 she turns up 1000. At 30, 1500.

How often do you travel faster than 30?

So unless you want to sink the little button to the floor board and hold her there all day, you're not using 3400 r. p. m. all the time.

I hope none of my friends will swallow whole any story deriding 3400.

You know you will always find the largest number of clubs under the best apple tree in the orchard.

MOTHERS CARELESS DAUGHTERS RUINED

Placing the entire blame with the mother, Mrs. L. M. Tseiger, matron of the Florence Crittenton Home, yesterday declared that the waywardness of the young people today was due to the fact that women are no longer willing to be home makers, home builders and home keepers.

"I do not select any one set as responsible, neither the bridge playing mothers nor the habitues of the picture playhouse, but I do contend that the young people going like so much driftwood, are not receiving the proper training at home. The only way they can be guided is by the mother being everlastingly at home, bearing in mind always that her duty to her family and to society is that of a character builder."

Mrs. Tseiger believes that there should be but one code of morals for the girl and the boy and that the young people should be made to understand be here a "week or two or a month or two and some one in the audience received the sentiment of the house when he said make it a year or two."

this law. It should be taught in the home.

"It is a perilous age," she said. "It is discouraging to note that it is ten times worse than the past decade and yet I am not without hope. Conditions must change and the most radical change necessary is in the home itself. There are many children, apparently in good families who are in reality neglected. Amusements are not supervised, movements are not accounted for, and they are permitted the freedom of the streets at all hours. All these things lead toward evil."

In speaking of the girls who had been committed to the Home and after their release again repeated their former indiscretions, Mrs. Tseiger said: "We have not always been given a fair chance to do good. In order that a girl might respond to our treatment of moral suasion and Christianity we must have her with us for an indefinite period. When a girl is committed to our care and at the end of three or four days recommitted to the care and custody of her parents, what opportunity have we had? I will answer for the morality of any child who has been in the Home for a year. In a few days we can hardly hope to overcome years and years of training or rather lack of training."

SIDELIGHTS ON THE REPUBLICAN MEETING

Because Johnny Moore didn't want to hurt any of his friends' feelings, and because he had friends on all sides, he declined to give a proxy for his one quarter vote in the convention yesterday. George Hershman secured the other three proxies, so he went into the convention with 1 3/4 votes. After he had sought recognition a number of times, a voice pealed out, "There is that fractional guy again."

Mrs. Ed. McCullough of Fowler presented a firm front for Hildreth at the convention yesterday. Hildreth is said to have remarked that if she had been his campaign manager, he would have—

At a convention to which 194 delegates were elected, 192 names were presented as possible delegates to Tucson. It is considered a fine showing for the republicans, indicating much interest. For further details, see next item.

The acceptance of the Cameron-

Young vote as a basis for apportioning the delegates, followed by yesterday's reign of amicableness between republicans and progressives, is said to indicate a strong chance that Maricopa will go republican in the fall. It was pointed out as an encouraging feature, that the Young-Cameron vote in 1914 was stronger than that for Hunt in this subdivision.

At last it is explained. John F. Myers, chamber of commerce gink from Tucson appeared at the central committee meeting and said, "Send the convention to Tucson. We will provide every entertainment."

The following duet ensued: Myers—"Yes, every entertainment!" Voice—"EVERY entertainment!" Myers—"EVERY ENTERTAINMENT!" And that's why so many folks were willing to bear the word of the Maricopa electorate to the state convention.

To while away the hours, during which the nominating committee deliberated, Chairman Curtis pointed to the big picture of Lincoln in the K. P. Hall and called for a standing vote of those who had voted for the martyred president. Eight responded, and were marched up to the front, where dining glasses and lunzas rebounded from their proud but gray heads. They were: W. L. Greer, A. J. Sampson, George Hamlin, C. M. Etter, Milo

Webb, William Newell, Michael Hotchkiss.

SUPER SIX MAKES NEW SPEED RECORD

The Hudson Super Six, 1916 product of the Hudson Motor Car Co., Detroit, has added another feather to its cap by making a new American record for a stock car over a straightaway mile. The performance was held on the smooth, hard beach at Daytona, Florida, under the official supervision of the American Automobile Association on April 16. F. E. Edwards, chairman of the Technical Committee of the A. A. A. and Fred J. Wagner were on the ground and officiated at the trials.

Two series of trials were run off on separate days. In the second series, in which the fastest time was made, Ralph Mulford was the pilot. Under his control the car was sent on six trial runs, and in none of them was the time for the mile more than 36 seconds. The best time made, however, was 35.12 seconds. This figure cut at the rate of 102.5 miles an hour, which is a record for stock cars.
